Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 23 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Intermittent rain in west on Thursday, sunny spells in east.

This Evening and Tonight:
Locally bright in the east this evening. Otherwise, rather cloudy with some light rain and drizzle this evening and overnight, mainly over western hills. Drier in the east, with occasional clear spells. A mild night with light winds. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Thursday:
Rather cloudy with intermittent rain possible. Generally brightening up, with some sunny spells developing by the afternoon. Feeling warmer in sunshine. Cloud and rain arriving overnight. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rather cloudy and cool with occasional rain on Friday and Saturday, locally heavy on Friday. Breezy on coasts. Mainly dry with warm sunny spells on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.